

GIULIO DI STURCO

Giulio Di Sturco (b.1979, Italy) is a visual artist based between London and Bangkok. He studied at the European Institute of Design and Visual Arts in Rome and then moved to India where he spent five years refining his visual vocabulary, working throughout much of Asia and Africa.

His awards include three World Press Photo prizes, the Sony Photography Awards, the British Journal of Photography International Awards, the Lens Culture Exposure Award, and the Getty Editorial and Reportage grants, among many other accolades and recognitions.

Giulio is a regular contributor to a wealth of publications, including The New York Times, Vanity Fair, National Geographic, Wired and the Financial Times.

His work has been exhibited internationally and he is due to release his first monograph, Ganga Ma.

Giulio continues to push the boundaries of documentary photography by constantly refining his aesthetic through new and old mediums. Much of his personal work focuses on human adversity in climates of environmental and technological evolution.